

The Irish Farmers Journal has been the best source of information on forestry since farmers became actively involved in afforestation during the early 1980s. In-depth weekly coverage along with major forestry supplements provided by Donal Magner on:

- Forestry policy
- Practical advice on forest establishment and maintenance.
- Information on State forestry schemes.
- Best income options from grants and premiums to the market place.
- Species selection.
- Timber prices for private and State sales, and price comparisons with our competitors.
- Market opportunities for Irish timber including construction, panelboard, packaging, fencing, leisure products and wood energy.
- Forestry and the environment and the potential of forestry in carbon trading.
- Research and development.
